

INSTRUCTIONS FOR VIDEO SUBMISSIONS

All video submissions must be accompanied by a written manuscript, which can either be an abstract or any of the other types of written submissions allowed by our journal. We highly encourage videos to be accompanied by »How I do it« submissions.

Abstracts should be between 200 and 1200 words long and should be divided into four divisions: Indications, Technique, Advantages and disadvantages, Potential complications. Abstracts, as well as other types of written submissions should follow the instructions for authors that are published on our journal site.

General rules that apply for written submissions are also in order for video submissions. We would like to emphasise that we require the video is not published or submitted for publication anywhere else. The authors are responsible for all statements in their videos. Accepted videos become the property of the journal and should not be published elsewhere without the written permission of the editors.

The video should show an interesting case or describe a surgical technique. It must be shorter than 15 minutes in duration and must include a narration in English language. A typed script of the narration should be included at the submission. The video should include an opening screen showing the title and all the authors. All private information or recognisable patient features should be deleted or blurred out. If this is impossible or affects the purpose of the video, written consent from the patient or the guardian must be obtained prior to submitting any video.

Videos should be in the highest resolution possible and should not contain material that is subject to copyright including music, sounds or videos. All submissions must be accompanied by a signed publication agreement by the corresponding author.

All manuscripts with the written narrations and signed publication agreement should be submitted through one of the following e-mails: jan.grosek@kclj.si or tomaz.jagric@gmail.com. Instructions for video submissions will follow the review of the manuscripts.
